Zombie zombie video

Zombies seem to invade our Windows phones these days. At the last count there were about fifteen zombie themed games on Marketplace. One of the more anticipated zombie themed games for Windows Phone 7 must be Zombies!!!. A collaboration between Microsoft Game Studios, Babaroga and Twilight Creations, Zombies!!! brings the popular board game to the small screen of your Windows Phone. Graphically well presented, Zombies!!! represents the original board game extremely well. The game premise is simple. Wipe out 25 zombies or make it a helipad to escape the city. Along the way, compete with other players who will do what they can to slow you down by playing action cards or positioning zombies in the way. Dealing with the living dead here is how the game plays out. You and up to four other zombie hunters are released into a city infected with the living dead. You have to work your way to a helipad to escape or wipe out twenty-five zombies to win. You have four set-ups or rule sets for games. Default: Games are based on the official Zombies!!! - The rules. Quick Play: Follows the official rules, but has the Helipad map chip in the lower half of the deck. Generated City: The game starts with the city map already generated. Survival Horror: You vs. a city full of zombies. No opponents and instead of 25 kills to win, it will take 105. Zombies!!! Is a multi-player game that you can pit yourself against computerized players or let your friends take a turn on wiping out zombies. To change the type of player, the color or remove a player simply tap the gear symbol in addition to each player game piece. The standard has you play against two CPU-controlled opponents. At the beginning of the game, each player has three hearts and two balls (you can earn more as the game progresses). Hearts represent your life and bullets can be used to defeat a zombie (more on this in a bit). You also receive three action cards that can give you bonuses or be used against other players to slow them down. The player moves or beats break down in several steps. You start playing with only the center displayed on the map. At the beginning of each turn, you get to add a piece to the map. Once in place, you add zombies and in some situations, you get to add bonus items (hearts and bullets). Once you get the map situation, it's time to roll the dice to see how far you can move. You can move freely down the road or venture into buildings to find bonus items. Land on a square with a zombie and you have to fight them. To fight against a zombie you will see a split screen with the player against the zombie. Battle is made of a roll of the dice. Roll a four or higher and you win. Roll less than a four and you'll either need to use bullets to increase the roll over four (e.g. roll a 3 plus a bullet equals four) or use a heart to roll again. Once you've completed your movements and battles, you'll get to roll another dice to see how many zombies you can use this to move zombies out of the way or move them to prevent your opponents progressing. At various points during the turn, you can use action cards. Some action cards will give you bonuses (e.g. add one point to each roll of the dice during battle) or punish your opponent (e.g. no movement during a turn). When you're done with your turn, the other players get a ride. For now, your opponents are controlled by the phone's CPU. Babaroga has done a very good job of programming the computerized players to be competitive. They are cross-border ruthless not only to you, but also each other. It helps to keep the game interesting and winning is by no means a cake ride. Eventually, the helipad piece of the map will drop and it becomes a foot race to reach 25 kills or make it into helipad and escape. Gaming experience Zombies!!! is graphically well done and competitive enough to keep things from going obsolete. If you're a fan of the boxing game, the Windows Phone 7 game is a must. From having player pieces jumping from square to square to animation of battle scenes, Zombies!!! was as fun to watch as it was to play. At first, the length of each turn took a little getting used to, but you develop a flow to make the game smoother. There are automated options for some aspects (e.g. re-positioning zombies) to speed things up a little bit, but by doing so, you lose some of the strategy the game offers. There were no errors, errors or crashes experienced while playing Zombies and loading times were fast and smooth. As mentioned, the graphics are well done and the sound effects just as fine. Another nice feature is the ability to save games in progress. Zombies!!! is not an action game, but rather a board game, and it takes some time to play out. Being able to save a game in progress allows you to play a few turns at a time. But don't be surprised if you look up and realize you've played Zombies!!! for an hour. The game has a creeping, addictive quality to it. Xbox Live Zombies!!! is an Xbox Live game that has different achievements that can be earned and reflected on your Xbox Live account. At the moment, it's not a collaboration feature that lets you get Xbox Live friends into the game. You can get others to play the game from your Windows Phone (you just send your phone around with every turn) and hopefully future development of Zombies!!! will allow more players to play from their own Windows Phone. It is our understanding that an Xbox Live Arcade version of Zombies!!! are in the works and we should see more Xbox Live interaction between Zombies!!! on Windows Phone and Zombies!!! on your Xbox. Overall impressions In short, Zombies!!! is a fantastic game. It went smoothly, looked good, and games weren't boring. The computer competes aggressively to prevent the game from becoming too easy. If you're looking for a serious challenge, Survival Horror throws everything but the kitchen sink at you. It the pace can be a little slow at first. But when you get used to the game, it picks up speed. There is a lot involved in every move from building the city map to fighting zombies. It has a chess that atmosphere at times with using action cards and re-positioning zombies during your trip. Strategy is definitely an element of Zombies!!! As mentioned earlier, if you are a fan of the board game Zombies!!! This is a must have app for Windows Phone. Even if you've never seen the board game, Zombies!!! is worth a try. There is a trial available and the whole game will run you $4.99. You can find Zombies!!! here in the marketplace. This will take a lot of testing before committing to exactly where you sew your backpack. I found that the best way to go about this was to place the stuffed double in the bag and add extra stuffing to the end of the bag and adjust the straps until it appears on the right. Keep checking in a mirror, and if in doubt, then dress up double to get a clearer idea. When you are happy you need to get a strong needle and thread. It is difficult to sew through duct tape AND IS POTENTIALLY DANGEROUSso a thimble is required. As with all tools / skills etc, if you are unsure of something then ask someone more experienced to help you. For each mask gently feed the needle through the bag, then push it through the duct tape body. When the needle is halfway through, very carefully reach in through the neck hole and very, very slowly find the needle among all the stuffing inside the body. After this, it is only a matter of feeding it back through the body, then the bag and then tightening the thread. You need to sew a line on top of the bag, and I recommend you sew along the bottom of the bag as well, so that the double does not slide further into the bag than you want it to. It doesn't have to be pretty, just relatively strong. If you feel the need then you can reinforce this by taping the bag to duct tape double. Double.
